

Pathfinder Foundation re-launches website

The newly developed website of the Pathfinder Foundation, www.pathfinder-foundation.org, was launched, in New Delhi by Nobel Prize for Peace recipient Shri Kailash Satyarthi, a renowned Indian social activist who campaigned to create a child-friendly society, where all children are free from exclusion and exploitation and receive free education. Milinda Moragoda, Founder of the Pathfinder Foundation, was present at the event.

Shri Satyarthi is a Nobel laureate and Indian social reformer who campaigned against child labour in India and advocated for universal education.

The Pathfinder Foundation (PF), established in 2008, is a non-profit, non-partisan, research & advocacy think-tank, operating today at regional level, dedicated to playing an important role in public policy, strategic and security related issues. Lately, Pathfinder has engaged in ocean centric affairs focusing on the Indian Ocean in general and the Bay of Bengal in particular.

The Foundation has also played a catalytic role in research and analysis to contribute to economic policy reforms in Sri Lanka. Over the years, Pathfinder has established a wide network of partner organizations worldwide. Serving as a platform to engage in critical thinking and cross-disciplinary analysis, the Foundation aims to increase knowledge and raise awareness of salient issues with relevant stakeholders locally and internationally.

The newly launched website has been designed and developed to showcase the Foundation's activities better and reach out to a broader audience across the globe. Visitors will be able to navigate through the site easily and learn more about the Pathfinder Centres and Affiliates and tap into the extensive library of Pathfinder publications, including policy papers & reports, books and newspaper columns and articles.

The Pathfinder Foundation's website is also linked to the organization's biennial flagship event – The Pathfinder Indian Ocean Security Conference (PFIOSC).
